BIOGRAPHY

Bruno Fischer Colonimos is a Professor of Quantitative Approaches to Decision Making (Mathematics of Finance, Statistics and Decision Support modeling) at IPAG Business School. He holds a Master's degree in Management from Lincoln International Business School Paris (1992), and is a Spanish national. After having taught several years to students engaged in professional training (BTS / DEC, formerly DECF), he has held organizational responsibilities as a teaching director (EDEP, IDRAC group), director of professional education (CIF-Europe), then professor-coordinator in charge of the first, second and third year at IPAG Business School. Today, he concentrates on teaching, both in French and in English, at IPAG (lectures and tutorial sessions). He also works occasionally at other institutions (American Business School, ESSEC), in English.
